Welcome to the Whirl KIDS STORY BIBLE

Experience the big story of God's people and share God's living word through the eyes of a child. Each story follows an engaging format that makes the Bible stories come to life!

- Read the lively story retelling on one page as kids follow the action in the pictures on the other page.
- Colorful borders help kids identify and navigate between the Old and New Testaments and through Bible sections.
- Stories include the Bible text reference.
- Engaging questions embedded into each story help kids make connections to their own lives.
- Twin siblings named Ada and Otto appear in each story to provide comments, explanations, and humor.

Rebekah and Isaac

GENESIS 24

Abraham's servant traveled far. He stood by a well, tired and thirsty at the end of the day. His thirsty camels shuffled and kicked their feet. The servant waited. And waited. And waited.

"God, Abraham sent me to find a wife for Isaac," the servant prayed. "Show me who it should be. Have the right woman give water to me. And my camels too!"

Just then, a young woman came to fill her own jar with water. Abraham's servant jumped up. "Please, may I have a drink of water?" he asked.

"Yes, and I will give water to your camels too," she replied.

Abraham's servant clapped his hands. This was the one! This woman would be Isaac's wife! He ran up to her and took two big gulps of water. "What's your name?" he asked.

"Rebekah."

You can tell Rebekah's really great because she was kind to animals.

Rebekah agreed to become engaged to Isaac.
Soon they were married!

Who do you know who's married?

Rebekah and Isaac wanted to have a baby.
They waited. And waited. And waited.

Finally, God blessed Isaac and Rebekah with twin sons! The babies wrestled each other in Rebekah's belly.

Rebekah asked God why the babies were fighting.
God told her, "One of your sons will be stronger than the other! The older will serve the younger."

Hairy Esau was born first. Smooth-skinned
Jacob came second, grabbing his brother's heel!
The brothers competed against each other from their very first day.

Hey, twins! Just like us.

That may be all we have in common with Jacob and Esau.
